Welcome to the process to select the best practices in local democracy 2025

The Award "Best Practice in Citizen Participation" is an award given annually by the International Observatory on Participatory Democracy (OIDP) to recognize public policies implemented by local and regional governments.

The aim of this Award is to recognise the experiences that local and regional governments implement in the field of participatory democracy. In this way, the aim is to give visibility to these practices in a more direct way, to bring them closer to other local governments and to serve as examples that could be reproduced, favouring networking.

Nominations may be submitted until 31 January 2025, as the deadline. The evaluation of the candidatures for this 18th IOPD Best Practice Award for Citizen Participation will be made both by juries of experts and by the citizen vote through this platform.
